1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

a. Claims 1-21 and 23-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kammer et al. in view of Wecker et al.

i. Kammer discloses a method for receiving information comprising transmitting a connection request from a first electronic device 144 or cellular phone to a second electronic device 105 using a wireless protocol (col. 16, lines 63-67; col.8, lines 53-61), in response to the request waking processor 120 to open a communication port, except for specifically stating that the received communication signal is stored.

(1) Wecker teaches desirability of storing an incoming communication signal used to wake a device (col. 8, lines 17-36). It would have been obvious to store incoming signals as taught by Wecker in a device as disclosed by Kammer, in order to allow a user to playback messages at their convenience.

Regarding claim 2, Wecker teaches use of PDA (col. 1, line 30).

Regarding claim 3, Kammer teaches use of handheld computer (col. 8, line 54).

Regarding claim 4, Kammer teaches use of Bluetooth (col. 16, line 66).

Regarding claim 5, using well known IR transmissions would have been obvious, since this is a standard transmission medium for communicating with portable electronic devices.

Regarding claims 6-8, Wecker teaches use of a trusted list which can be changed or created by processor (col. 11, line 56- col. 12, line 10).

Regarding claim 9, Wecker teaches use of serial port (col. 10, line 28).

Regarding claim 10, use of a USB port in a computing device for providing communications to a user is well known in the art.

Regarding claim 11, Wecker teaches notification of storage and whether a stored communication was successfully completely stored (col.8, lines 17-35).

2. Claims 22 and 30 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

3. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
